anything to the Department.

After I was satisfied that the rebels were about to evacuate Richmond I commenced removing the obstruc-tions below Howlett's battery, and in the course of the night after, succeeded in getting a channel through and removed the torpedoes. The gunboats moved up to Drury's, where the obstructions again presented a bar to further progress.

Expected Arrival of Mesers. Hunter au Campbell—The Policy of the Radicals.
OUS SPECIAL WASHINGTON DESPATCH.

Wassington, April 10, 1865.

Distinguished rebels—probably Messrs. Hunter and Campbell—are expected to arrive in this city shortly, on business connected with the restoration of the rebellious States to the privileges of the Union.

The present condition of Beorets: Seward's health renders it necessary that any conference to which he is a party should be held here; and as there is known to be a wide difference of opinion existing between him and the Sumner-Butler radicals as to the proper terms of such restoration, a consultation has been decided upon, to take place previous to convening Congress for legislation upon the subject.

The adroitly put speech of General Butler to-day in dicates the radical plan for treating the different classes of rebels in their personal relations. The territory they would consider as "conquered," and require it to be admitted as new States. The policy of the administration having been based thus far upon the idea that States cannot secode from or otherwise leave the Union, it is now too late in the day to adopt that of the radicals.

Washington, April 10, 1865.

The President About to Adopt a Concellatory Course.

[From the National Intelligencer, April 10.]

We learn from an authentic source that Judge Campbell, of Alabama, formerly of the United States Supreme Court, and one of the Hampton Roads commissioners of the rebel government, called upon the President at Richmond, and urged him to issue a proclamation of a conciliatory character, expressing his belief that is would have at this time a most salutary effect.

The President however, was not then prepared for this

The President, however, was not then prepared for this step, and it was quite reasonable to suppose he would decline action upon this subject while Grant was pressing upon Lee's retreating forces.

Committee of the Virginia Legisla ture to Apprise Governor Smith of Pre-sident Limcoln's Terms.

(From the Richmond Whig, April 8.)

The statement that there would be a meeting issevening of such members of the Virginia Legislature as still remained in the city was not strictly correct. There was no meeting of the Legislature or others, but simply an informal conference and consultation of private in-Legislature. The motive of these gentlemen coming to-gether was to hear from Judge Campbell the terms upon which President Lincoln had expressed bimself as wil-

Ming that Virginia might return to the Union.

Measra J. R. Anderson, David J. Burr, Nathaniel P.
Tyler and H. W. Thomas were appointed a committee to inform the Legislature and Governor Smith of President Lincoln's terms, and Judge Campbell was requested to accompany the committee, who were to leave the city as soon as passports could be procured. It was said to be probable that they would get off this morning.

We prefer not to state our understanding of Mr. Lin-

The Battle Fing of the Thirty-minth New York Veteran Volunteers.

Captain C. H. The flag is an interesting relic of the numerous battles in which the Thirty-ninth has participated. Its folds in which the Thirty-ninth has participated. Its folds were stained with the service of many campaigus, and bore numerous bullet holes and rents made by shot and shell. The staff was broken in two, having been severed by a bullet. The flag was first used in the battle of Cross Kern, Virginia, June 8, 1862. In the campaigu against Richmond it was borne in the battles of the Wildernass, the Po. SUPERME COURT—CIRCU Before Judge Leonard.

Arm. 10.—Frederick B. Wenne vs. Marianne Bazier.—
This was an interesting suit for board and lodging, and involved some very nice points. The defendant, it appears—a very pretty girl, about eighteen years of age, and an helress to some three thousand dollars worth of real estate to boot—boarded with the plaintiff for several months, and became indebted, as it is alleged, in the sum of two hundred dollars.

The defence set up was that the defendant was stopping at the plaintiff is house more in the character of a visitor than a boarder; that she attended to various household duties during her gtay, took core of the plaintiff is house more feefally useful, &c., which she considered a fair equivalent for her board. As a separate defence it was urged that the defendant is half sister. Was Charlock, who also boarded in the house, paid half the rent in consideration of the defendant and herself being allowed to board gratis, and that there was a distinct understanding with Mr. Winne on this point.

Evidence was introduced by the plaintiff to show that the defendant played the lady while stopping at his house, and that she seldem if ever attended to any of the hous-work except that connected with her own comfort. Miss Baxter, upon taking the stand, fiatly contradicted the evidence of these witnesses, and maintained that the plaintiff was fully compensated for her board. She was always ready and willing to perform her share of the household duties, and sever refused to do snything, except to one or two instances, where the labor was rather too menial.

The lory in this case were ordered to bring in a sealed verdict at ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

ITALIAN OPERA, BROOKLYN-MARRYRER'S REVESTS -Th complimentary benefit to Mr. Maretzek came off at the Brooklyn Academy last night, on which occasion the Brooklyn Academy last night, on which occasion Bollini's grand opera I Puritant was given in a manner which elicited continuous applause, and encores of the finer passages of the work almost without limit. Piety and patriotism being the strong points of the residents of Brooklyn, the fact that this is "holy week," the last of Lent, and that General Lee has surrendered, more or less affected the house as regards numbers, but not at all in enthusiasm; for both artists and impressario were received in the warmest manner. The opera was very finely sung throughout by Kellogg, Lott, Bellini and Susini. This evening Mr. Maretzek will accept the graceful compliment from his artists and his friends of a farewell benefit in the New York Academy. We believe the house enefit in the New York Academy. We believe the hor is filled, or nearly so, in anticipation; and we expect the directors will be such as he deserves from the public.

Il Poliuto, the third act of La Forza and other attractions are on the programme. That there will be a magnific house this evening there can be no doubt.

NEW BOWERY THEATRE -- Mr. Charles, the Irish come pearance at this house last night, in the drama of Ireland and America, and the Irish Lion. The house was rathe dim, owing, we presume, to the weather, but the acting of Mr. Charles appeared to meet with the approval of the audience. Miss Melville is a vocalist as well as a very sprightly actress, and sang two or three songs, greatly the delight of those present, who vociferously applauded
